Blockchain

- Blockchain is like a digital ledger or record-keeping system that's super secure and can't be changed.
- It's made up of a chain of connected 'blocks,' and it's used for things like keeping track of digital money and making sure information stays honest and safe online

Need For The system

1. Technical Issues: E-filing systems often require users to navigate online platforms, which can be prone to technical glitches, server downtime, or compatibility issues with different browsers or devices. These technical challenges can disrupt the filing process
2. Document Tracking: Maintaining a record of who accessed or checked out physical documents and when can be challenging without a comprehensive tracking system.

3. Space Constraints: Physical documents take up physical space, and over time, the volume of legal documents can become overwhelming. Renting or owning additional office space to accommodate paper records can be costly.
4. Document Preservation: Paper documents are susceptible to damage from environmental factors such as humidity, pests, fire, and water. Advocates must implement measures to protect documents from deterioration and ensure their long-term preservation
